City slashes equipment requests

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Christmas didn't come early this year for Granite City municipal department heads. In fact, it may not ever arrive. The Finance Committee of the City Council convened Monday night to review the various department heads' budgetary equipment requests, or "wish lists," for fiscal year 1992-93. After all was said and done, the committee came up with a 1992-93 budget projecting $12,777,449 in expenditures and revenue of $12,727,302 — an imbalance of $50,147.

Mayor Von Dee Cruise and Finance Committee Chairman Walter Milton called the budget, in effect, "balanced." The city had a surplus of $1,552,879 on hand May 1, the start of the 1992-93 fiscal year. Milton has consistently insisted that the city maintain at least $1,000,000 — about one month's operating expenses — as a reserve in the General Fund. "The city is a $12 million business. As such, it should be operated like a business," Milton said. "We need to have at least one month's expenses on hand at all times." The budget was computed with no provision for raises for city employees. City Comptroller K.F. MacTaggart said, "But increases in insurance benefits are included. Milton said that, if city employees receive wage increases, benefits will likely be lessened accordingly in the negotiation process. A 4 percent raise across the board for all city employees would translate into about $240,000 in expenses, Milton said. Equipment purchase requests from departments with budgets of more than $1 million were: The Fire Department. The entire budget for the department totals $3,336,568. The Finance Committee approved $241,076 of Fire Chief Jerry Wallace's requested $462,183 purchases. Among the equipment approved was the refurbishing of one 19-year-old fire truck at $145,000. The engine, gear end, transmission and other parts of the pumper will be outfitted with completely new equipment. The process allows for the vehicle to be titled as a new truck, Wallace said. Image problems Toll booths' appearance criticized

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

People are getting a bad first impression of Venice at the McKinley Bridge toll booths, according to Venice Alderman Silver Franklin. The booths are covered with bumper stickers from radio stations. There are radios blasting and televisions blaring. And the toll takers are often outside the booths and surrounded by friends and family, Franklin told the City Council on Tuesday. "These people represent the city of Venice and I think they are presenting a bad image of our city," Franklin said.

"There is a lack of professionalism and I think we need to tighten up things down there," Franklin said. It might be a good idea to put the employees in uniform, but that at the very least the employees need to be "told to stay in their booths, turn down the radios and TVs, tell their families to stay away and tell their friends to stay away." Alderman Victor Valentine said the toll booths are not air conditioned and the weather is hot. Valentine conceded that music should not be blasting, but said there are two sides to the issue and both should be considered. "Basically, this is a boring job and I don't

Wall appealing conviction

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Following a 50-year prison sentence, Steven Wall is appealing his conviction on first-degree murder and other charges. Wall, 30, was sentenced to 50 years Monday for first-degree murder, and five years for each charge of arson and concealment of a homicidal death. The sentences, which are to run concurrently, were handed down by Circuit Judge Charles V. Romani Jr. in the Third Circuit Court at Edwardsville.

Wall was convicted of the charges by a Madison County jury on Jan. 10 in the 1991 death of Lester R. Brewer of Jonesboro, Ark. Wall is the second man to be convicted of first-degree murder in Brewer's death. Brewer's body was discovered in his burned GMC pickup truck shortly after 8 a.m. April 8, 1991. The truck was parked in the two-block of Kirkpatrick Homes, Granite City, where Brewer had arrived three days earlier to visit his daughter, Susan Migneron, at the apartment she shared with Wall. While Brewer's body had first- and second-degree burns above the waist, the cause of death was strangulation. Robert K. Sharp, 31, of Madison is serving a 45-year sentence after pleading guilty to murder and arson charges. Sharp admitted burning Brewer's truck to cover up the murder. He testified at Wall's trial that Wall killed Brewer. Wall, his family, and Migneron, with whom he has a daughter, have all maintained his innocence.

'Good leads,' no suspect in killing

Deputies trying to find the killer of a 32-year-old former Granite City woman at her home in the Godfrey area have "several good leads" but no suspect, Tuesday. She had warned authorities she feared for her life. Madison County Sheriff Bob Churchich said the estranged husband of the victim was questioned and released. The battered body of JoAnn Dietzel was found by her eight-year-old daughter and a baby sitter about 10:45 a.m. Monday. Dietzel, who lived in the first block of Bethany Lane in Foster Township near Godfrey, was beaten to death, according to an autopsy. Her husband, Terry Dietzel, 41, went to the Sheriff's Department with his attorney Monday afternoon. "We asked him if he was where, about, and he was released," Churchich said. "At this point, we don't have a suspect. We are following several good leads." Terry Dietzel could not be reached for comment Monday or Tuesday. Churchich said it appeared JoAnn Dietzel had been beaten with a child's baseball bat and strangled. The bat was broken in half and a piece may have been used to stab her in the stomach, he said. Dietzel apparently had a party at her home until about 3 a.m. Monday. Churchich said. Her daughter, Nichole, spent Sunday night at the baby-sitter's house on the same street. Efforts are being made to locate and question persons who were at the party. JoAnn Dietzel filed for divorce Feb. 22 and had obtained a court order of protection against her estranged husband June 26. She had called the Sheriff's Department a number of times,

JoAnn Dietzel

"She and her husband had both been arrested by our department on various charges," Churchich said. "They had both filed complaints against each other. The charges were always dropped in court." In her divorce petition, Dietzel cited irreconcilable differences and a breakdown of the marriage. She alleged extreme and repeated mental cruelty. Associate Judge Ellar Duff signed an emergency order of protection against Terry Dietzel. (See KILLING, Page 2A)

Building stays smoke-free

The new Madison County Administration Building will remain smoke-free for now. It's a situation that irks at least one county board member, Robert Stille, D-Edwardsville. "Yes we have a place outside but they say we are still infringing on the non-smokers," Stille said, during Wednesday's county board meeting. "I may become a non-smoker tomorrow." Stille said that several county employees are also smokers. Alan Dunstan, D-Troy, chairman of the county's Legislative Committee, said that the county's options were limited. To solve the problem, he suggested either building a wall in the cafeteria or tables are smoking and the other four are non-smoking." Dunstan said the Illinois Clean Indoor Air Act requires limits smoking inside public building to enclosed areas. "So we can't just go down to the cafeteria and say these two tables are smoking and the other four are non-smoking," Dunstan said. "We'd need to build a wall or something which is fine with me if you want to spend the money to do that." Stille said the new building's ventilation system also poses a problem even if a smoking area was designated. Dunstan said that the air in the building circulates into the system where it passes through filters before being redistributed throughout the building. Stille said the system has several filters so the recirculated air poses no threat.

Prosecutors square off over Don Weber

The flak is flying on several fronts in the wake of a felony charge against outspoken Illinois Supreme Court candidate Don Weber. Two Democrats, Madison County State's Attorney William Haine and a special prosecutor who brought the charge against Haine's former colleague, are sparring. And the county's Republican chairman, Edward Ragdale, said any prosecution of Weber, also a Republican, should be a charge of sexual harassment, not a warrant federal intervention to ensure fairness. "None of the judges in Madison or St. Clair counties have any business hearing a case involving Don Weber," he said. "A charge of sexual harassment, if this is to be a fair situation." Haine has questioned the validity of the charge, calling for a prompt preliminary hearing to assess evidence. The charge, which alleges

Weber conspired with a witness to exaggerate damages in a civil suit, Weber filed against a political foe, as "an insult to the people of the state of Illinois in an effort to lynch a political dissident," Haine said. The special prosecutor, Richard Sturgeon of St. Clair County, said Haine was out of line with his criticism. "I've never heard of a prosecutor making such comments about a criminal prosecution," Sturgeon said. "I'm shocked by his actions." Haine said Sturgeon should be (See WEBER, Page 8A)

Killing

On June 26, and Churchill said his department had received no complaints since then.

The divorce petition also asked that Terry Dietzel not be given special treatment because he worked for an attorney who is a former law partner of Madison County State's Attorney William Haine.

JoAnn Dietzel claimed in the petition that she had tried several times to file charges against her estranged husband but was refused.

"I know both these folks," Haine said. "Everything done in this office was done by the book. There were no special favors for anyone."

Haine said that, although he did not get the order of protection for Dietzel, she had spoken to members of his staff.

"We counseled her and told her how to get the order on her own," he said.

"We would have pursued the order ourselves, but no criminal charges were filed."

Haine said she had not contacted his office with a complaint after the protection order was issued.

"The Illinois attorney general's staff is expected to prosecute any charges that may be filed in the murder investigation."

"It's going to be a tough case because she had a party at her house," Churchill said. "The neighbors said there were all kinds of people going in and out of the house. There was a lot of activity."

The hearing was very severe," he said. "In fact, it's what we call overkill. The individual who did this doesn't belong on the street."

The victim was found lying in a pool of blood.

Churchill said JoAnn Dietzel had called his department several times to complain about an abusive man.

"We called her name up on the computer and it went nuts about all the problems she had," Churchill said.

Dietzel's father, Frank Onesky, of Glen Carbon, stood in a yard across the street from Dietzel's home Monday afternoon as sheriff's detectives interviewed neighbors and stopped passing motorists.

Dietzel's daughter stood by her grandfather's side.

Onesky said a neighbor called to tell him about his daughter's death.

"I really have no idea why someone would do this," Onesky said. "All I can say is it's a real mess. It's vicious and it's crazy."

A neighbor who asked not to be identified said she had witnessed JoAnn Dietzel being beaten in June by a man in Dietzel's front yard. She said the man also threw gasoline on Dietzel during a fight.

Funeral services were held in Granite City today.

An obituary notice is given elsewhere in this issue.

The department was also allocated $27,400 for materials used in dealing with incidents involving hazardous materials; $4,500 for two self-contained breathing apparatus units; $1,800 for traffic control equipment; and $8,500 for a variety of equipment such as hose, wrenches, radios and gloves.

The Police Department's departmental budget is $1,290,736.

Police Chief Don Knight was appropriated $129,553 of $127,770 requested for equipment purchases.

Those funds are to be used to purchase three new police cars $45,000; 25 bullet-proof vests $11,250; a target system for the shooting range $1,700; a low-light cam-corder $1,500; radio antennae $800; and other equipment.

About $27,425 of the expenditure is contingent on the acceptance of conditions of a grant. That money would be used to purchase another car, emergency lights, a radar gun, a video camera and other equipment for the car; a special effects video cassette recorder and a slide projector for training.

The Street Department's budget for the year is $1,383,917.

Superintendent Clayton "Jug" Harrison asked for $136,162 for equipment, and was allocated $136,162.

Among the equipment to be purchased are two new trucks ($55,000), a tailgate spreader ($1,000), and a conveyor for a street sweeper ($3,200).

Harrison was allocated $18,000 to rent, rather than purchase, equipment used on a seasonal basis.

Harrison also asked for a budgetary provision for hiring new employees, but no such provision was made for any department.

The Inspection Department's total department budget is $1,258,799.

The committee approved all of Inspector Vince Scrum's $20,300 request for new equipment.

The inspection department will receive $20,000 to buy a 1993 one-ton dump truck to replace a 1987 dump truck.

Other items appropriated for will include computer equipment, squirrel and cat traps, lawn mowers and weed trimmers.

2 home fires here being investigated

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Two fires within a four-hour period over the weekend are being called suspicious.

The first blaze in a rear apartment in the 2400 block of Cleveland Boulevard at 11 p.m. Saturday was quickly extinguished. But firefighters worked at the second fire, in the 2200 block of Lee Avenue at 2:40 a.m. Sunday, for nearly two hours.

No one was injured in either instance.

Fire Chief Jerry Wallace called both fires "suspicious" and said investigations are continuing in both cases.

The first fire ignited in a closet on the ground floor of a two-story concrete block apartment building in the rear of 2402 Cleveland, according to police.

Granite City

Firearm warrant arrest

Terry A.C. Jarosewicz, also known as Terry Creek, 19, of the 2100 block of Missouri Avenue was arrested at 10:50 a.m. July 13 on a warrant for failure to appear in court on a charge of unlawful possession of a firearm by a felon. He was arrested at Illinois Avenue and West 23rd Street and was lodged.

Threatened with knife

Randy E. Foster, 33, of the 2400 block of Delmar Avenue was arrested at 7:32 p.m. July 12 and charged with aggravated assault.

The alleged victim, Bryan L. Robinson, 32, who lives in the same building as Foster, told police Foster threatened him with a butcher knife.

Foster was lodged pending $107 bail.

Drug possession alleged Jason V. Branch, 19, of the 2600 block of East 24th Street was arrested at 10:43 p.m. July 11 and charged with unlawful possession of cannabis.

Police reported seeing three men standing in the 800 block of Niedrighaus Avenue, inspecting a clear plastic baggie containing a brownish-green leafy substance, alleged to be cannabis.

After two of the men left,

and fire reports.

Damage was estimated at $1,000, and was limited by the fact that heat from the fire melted a hole in a plastic water pipe running through the closet, providing partial extinguishment, according to a fire report.

Flame damage was limited to the closet itself, and smoke damage was confined to the apartment.

A pile of clothes in the closet apparently was ignited. The door from the closet was left ajar. And a trail of paper, neatly placed through a kitchen and bathroom, led to the front door, which was unlocked, according to a police report.

The owner of the building, Helen Christich, 66, of the 3300 block of Harvard Place, told police the apartment was supposed to be vacant, as the previous tenant's rent expired June 30.

But witnesses told police the apartment was being occupied as recently as Saturday morning, when they heard music coming from the apartment.

No smoke detectors were present in the apartment, according to a police report.

The second fire, at a two-story wood-frame home at 2240 Lee, apparently began in an area between a kitchen ceiling and attic floor. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

Flame damage was limited to the attic, but smoke damage was evident throughout the building, according to a fire report.

Two undercover police officers on patrol in the area reported seeing smoke come from the home. They advised a dispatcher to inform the fire department of the situation and went with a uniformed officer to the scene.

Officers were not at the scene by two unidentified individuals, who told them the occupants were still in the building.

The officers knocked on the door and informed the residents, Richard V. Buncie and Joseph L. Darnell, that their home was on fire.

Two pumper trucks and a Telesquirt apparatus responded to the scene, along with 12 firefighters, who remained at the scene until 4:40 a.m.

Smoke detectors were present in the home, but were not operable, according to the report.

Buncie, the owner of the house, said he had recently been harassed. A dead chicken was recently thrown in his yard, and his car was vandalized with spray paint, he said.

Police said they will seek to confiscate the vehicle under federal forfeiture laws.

An officer followed the truck one-half block north, where it turned right onto Calhoun Street, allegedly without first signaling.

The driver, later identified as McLean, told police that a film container, located on a console between the front seats and alleged to contain nine pieces of crack cocaine, belonged to him, the report states.

New Perot coordinator seeking unity

Granite City lawyer Dan Counts takes over as county leader

A 28-year-old lawyer is pushing unity in his new role as Madison County coordinator of the H. Ross Perot presidential campaign.

Dan Counts of Granite City was elected 39-6 over fellow candidate Ivan Schroeder of Troy during a meeting of Perot volunteers at Charlie's Restaurant near Granite City Tuesday night.

Two other candidates, Hugh Enyart of O'Fallon and Lee Presser of Glen Carbon, withdrew their names from nomination. Presser was renominated for the job he resigned earlier this month after a shoplifting incident at Scott Air Force Base Presser, who pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge in that case, said he had not sought the nomination and withdrew his name in favor of Counts.

Counts immediately formed a county coordinating committee made of Fran Mintert of Alton, Bernie Garvey of Godfrey, Patti Jukes of Collinsville, Dave Mallot of Highland, and Schneider.

"The committee is a centralized effort to coordinate the county for Perot," Counts said. "We hope to reach more people that way."

Counts said Madison County volunteers have gathered about 3,000 signatures on petitions for Perot so far. Some 25,000 are needed to get Perot's name on the Illinois ballot. With the petition drive winding down, volunteers need to start thinking about the campaign, distributing literature and organizing a telephone bank to get voters to the polls, Counts said.

The group also needs money, he said. "We need to present a plan of action to get money from Chicago (Illinois Citizens for Perot)," he said. "The money is needed to rent a Madison County office and fill it with telephones and other equipment, he said."

Counts said no decision has been made on location of a Madison County office but it probably will be in Alton. Office space has been offered by Apple Insurance Services, 2218 College Ave., he said.

Unity was the theme Tuesday night as several speakers called for efforts to pull the Perot campaign together in Madison County. Counts said he once was "gung ho" for Ronald Reagan, but never liked George Bush, calling him "a Country Club Republican."

"I'm more comfortable with real people," Counts said. "Bush has done nothing, but promises the moon. Then, here comes the Democrats and we get Pretty Boy Bill." He asked why the country would want Clinton when his record was so bad in Arkansas.

Perot is a can-do man," Counts said. "He's a gung-ho man of action."

Starr says he would give up pay

Congressional candidate Mike Starr said that if he is elected he will devote $40,000 of his congressional pay each year to a loan fund for developing small businesses in the 12th Congressional District.

Republican Starr said he feels economic redevelopment is so critical that he'll be investing his share of the pay raise Congress gave itself.

Brian Lott, spokesman for incumbent Democrat Jerry Costello of Belleville, said "It's a cute gimmick but it's not the way to solve the long-term economic problems of our region."

"Congress doesn't deserve a pay raise and I won't take it," the challenger said.

As attractive as that $129,500 salary is to a man with two kids in college and another approaching, the new 12th Congressional District deserves a chunk of it.

The loan fund and a major push to establish a federal enterprise zone in the district will be the two key items in his economic plan, Starr has said. The former businessman teaches at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Lott said Costello is a strong supporter of enterprise zones and has been since he was elected to Congress.

"Economic development is Costello's highest priority," Lott said, "especially after 12 years of neglect of this region from the Republican White House."

BAC's financial picture brightening

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

Belleville Area College's financial picture is looking rosier for both the college and for taxpayers.

After preparing the tentative 1992-93 budget, administrators expect the tax rate to drop from 24 cents per $100 assessed valuation to 21.1 cents, said Larry Schmalenberger, vice president for administrative services.

The college is projecting a $35 million budget with an operating fund of $22,668,269. The budget will be on display for 30 days starting Thursday at the Belleville Campus.

"The tax rate will be lower because assessed valuation of property is expected to be 4 percent higher than last year," Schmalenberger said.

If the property values are higher, the college does not need to collect as much money from taxpayers in order to collect the desired amount of revenue.

For example, the owner of a $60,000 home with an assessed value of $20,000 will pay BAC $42.20 in property taxes. Last year, the home owner would have paid BAC $48.

"I think the taxpayers will be pleased about this," Schmalenberger said. "Personally, I am very happy about that. I am a taxpayer, too."

The tax rate does include a 3.9 cent per $100 assessed valuation for building maintenance and repair. The tax is adopted by the board on a year-to-year basis under the Life, Health, Safety Protection Act.

It will be the third year in a row that the college adopted the tax.

Another reason the school is able to lower its rate is a reduction in workers' compensation costs. Because of fewer claims against the fund, BAC was able to drop out of a state insurance pool and contract privately at less expensive rates.

Another unusual aspect of the college's financial picture is that by the end of the year BAC will be debt-free.

By Dec. 31, the college will have paid off the debt to its working cash fund.

The working cash fund is used to make loans to other funds including education, building maintenance and transportation.

"This is very unusual," he said. "This is exceptional for an institution of this size. Very few other schools are in such a good financial position."

A public hearing will be held at 7 p.m. Aug. 19 at the Belleville campus.

Two blood drives scheduled here

Blood drives will be conducted here on two consecutive days.

The first will be held on Monday, July 27, sponsored by the Tri-City Chapter of the American Red Cross. The drive will be held at 2558 Madison Ave. in Granite City. Hours will be 2 p.m. until 7 p.m.

The second drive will be held the next day, Tuesday, July 28, sponsored by Sanford-Brown Business College, located at 3237 West Chant of Rocks Road. The drive will be held in a classroom at the rear entrance of the building from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Eligible to give blood are all healthy persons who are 17 or older and weigh at least 110 pounds.

The need for blood increases each summer because of traffic accidents, elective surgeries and decreased contributions due to vacations, a spokesman said.

THE LAW AND YOU
By RICK REED
Attorney At Law
If two individuals own property in joint tenancy, upon the death of the first joint tenant, his interest will pass to the survivor. Sometimes one joint tenant will attempt to pledge his interest in the property as collateral for a loan. The question then arises as to what affect this has on the interest of the other joint tenant.
A 1984 case involved a parcel of real estate owned in joint tenancy by two individuals. One of the joint tenants mortgaged his interest without the knowledge of the other. When the mortgaging tenant died, the question arose as to whether the property would pass to the surviving joint tenant or to the person holding the mortgage lien. The Court held that unless the mortgage was signed by all the joint tenants, the signature of only one joint tenant would do no more than create a lien on the interest of the mortgaging party. Therefore, when the mortgaging tenant died, the surviving tenant took the entire interest in the property.
This case involving joint tenancy real estate is to be distinguished from a recent case involving a joint bank account. In this situation, a widow had established a savings account with her husband prior to his death. Without the knowledge of the woman, her husband had taken out several loans with a bank. He pledged the savings account as collateral for these loans, and he died a few years later leaving the loans in default. After his death, the bank took the proceeds of the savings account in order to satisfy the $9,200 which was owing on the loans.
The widow argued that her husband had pledged as collateral only his own interest in the account. She felt that the bank's right to the account as collateral was extinguished when her husband died. The Court noted that a joint bank account is not the same as a joint tenancy in real property, and is subject to the provisions of the contract between the bank and its depositors.
The agreement between the bank and the couple allowed one joint depositor to unilaterally pledge the interests of all the joint depositors. Thus, when the husband pledged the savings account as collateral, he pledged both his interest and his wife's interest in the account. The bank therefore was within its rights in enforcing the security agreement against the funds in the account.

One born every minute

Smoke and mirrors are nothing new in governmental budgeting, so it probably shouldn't surprise us that Illinois lawmakers adopted another magician's trick in this year's state budget.

Misdirection — the method David Copperfield has used to make the Statue of Liberty disappear — seems an eerily appropriate description for a budgeting process. Copperfield shows the statue through a doorway and then covers the doorway with a curtain. While Copperfield keeps the audience occupied watching his other feats, the doorway is slowly moved. Later, when the curtain reopens, the statue is no longer visible through the doorway. The audience — for an instant, anyway — believes the statue actually disappeared.

Rather than raise individual taxes, the state decided to put a temporary tax on hospitals to help pay for the state Medicaid program.

To pay it, the hospitals will increase their charges to cover the tax — plus a fee for paperwork, no doubt — and pass along the cost to the insurance companies.

In turn, the insurance companies will increase rates to cover the increase — again adding a fee for paperwork — and pass the total cost along to each and every one of us. It would have cost us less if the state had just taxed us in the first place. Did our lawmakers really believe we wouldn't notice?

Probably so. After all, no one has seemed to notice the state's shenanigans in the past.

When the state, which is required to maintain a balanced budget, finds itself going into debt, what does it do? It simply keeps paying its bills.

"We know we owe you $100,000, but it's been a rough year so we're only going to pay you $60,000 and make it up to you later," the state tells a school district. "Next year, we'll say we owe you $140,000 to make up the shortfall and still pay you whatever we want."

And we, the taxpayers, make up the difference.

The state — doing local governments a favor — agrees to collect all sales taxes and then pass along the local governments' share. But whenever the state has money in its pocket — no matter whose money it is — that money starts burning a hole.

"Gee, we spent part of your money," the state tells local government. "Here's what's left. Sorry."

And once again we, the taxpayers, make up the difference. One hundred percent of the money earned by the Illinois Lottery goes to education. That sounds great for our children and, therefore, it must be a good thing, right?

Well, for every lottery dollar that goes for education, the state takes an education dollar to spend somewhere else. It doesn't take a genius to figure out that the net gain for education is zero and that, in effect, the lottery money is being spent for any and every thing the state desires.

P.T. Barnum, as skilled a showman as Copperfield, once pointed out that no one ever went broke underestimating the intelligence of the American public. Our state-lawmakers seem to have taken that wisdom to heart.

Barnum also said there's a sucker born every minute and our state lawmakers count on that every time they prepare a budget.

The state won't raise our taxes this year. That makes the state the good guy. Taxpayers, however, will be paying more for government services this year. What state lawmakers are counting on is that no one will notice it's the state's fault.

There may be some method in this madness. Education, as always, will end up being the hardest hit. Maybe the lawmakers are hoping that poor education will mean no one is smart enough to figure out what they're doing.

Costly regulations increasing

The three-month moratorium on new regulations announced by the Bush administration comes as a welcome respite.

It will no doubt produce some limited benefits to the economy, but the basic problem of excessive regulation remains.

Thomas Hoenes, a former economist for the Office of Management and Budget, has estimated federal regulation costs taxpayers $60 billion every year, or upwards of $4,000 per household. This year will see that regulatory burden increased by $70 billion.

Even now, 122,400 employees of 52 federal regulatory agencies are grinding out new regulations by the barrel, far surpassing the notorious regulatory explosion that occurred during the Carter administration.

Against such a avalanche of new rules, a three-month moratorium offers only limited, temporary relief.

Even worse, the really expensive new regulations that do the most damage to our economy are required by law and are thus beyond the reach of the moratorium.

The most obvious example is environmental regulation, which accounts for 40 percent of the government's regulatory budget and exacts an annual toll of $100 billion on our economy.

In only three years, spending by the Environmental Protection Agency has soared 31 percent. The new Clean Air Act approved in 1990 will add another $25 billion per year to that total.

Meanwhile, business is looking down the barrel of new regulatory programs that threaten to impose vast expenses on the private sector.

These laws are kicking into effect now, their impact will be felt in terms of higher prices and lost jobs within a few months.

In light of the prolonged recession, and the awesome cost of regulatory programs, Congress should be looking for ways to alleviate the impact of regulation on our economy. Instead, Congress is plotting even more new regulatory laws.

Without question, federal regulatory programs are born of the best of intentions. Also, many regulations related to safety and environmental protection are worthwhile, necessary and cost-effective.

But it is equally clear that many of these rules produce little discernible benefit, and that some — such as the rule requiring asbestos be removed from buildings — probably create more hazards than they eliminate.

There is something fundamentally wrong with a system that permits so many foolish rules to see the light of day.

We need some sort of regulatory devil's advocate empowered to challenge these programs on the drawing board, subjecting them to a non-sense cost-benefit test, and to kill the ones that don't pass.

Truck is man's only income source

TO THE EDITOR:

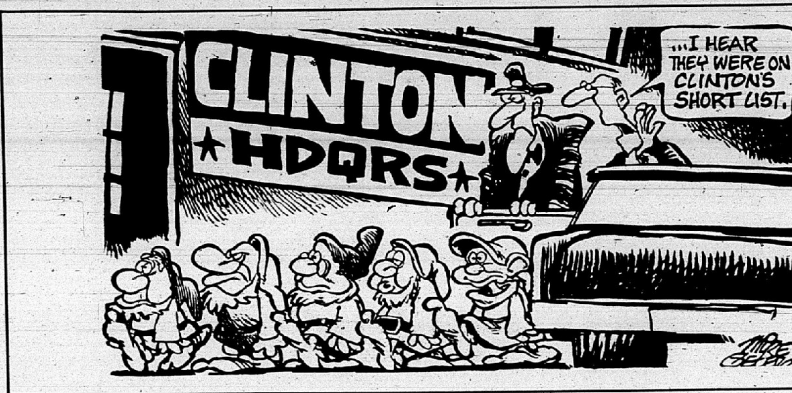

I am writing in reference to the article written on July 5, "A ticket a day, trucker's violations mounting," concerning Larry Dunn and the West Granite community.

It was quoted that I had called West Granite a slum neighborhood, but I was referring to West Granite being an older section of town.

I know there has been a lot of controversy about my truck sitting in my yard, but I cannot afford to have my vehicles worked on and I have no other place to work on them except my home.

My truck is my only source of income. I must have it running in order to make my living.

Salvation Army helpful to needy

TO THE EDITOR:

In 1967 I was in a hospital and the only person who was released was to find somewhere I could hang out several hours a day. I had a friend at the Salvation Army, who consented to let me be a volunteer job for me. I worked most of 1967 from 9 a.m. till 2:30 p.m.

I cleaned the sanctuary in the morning. Some people don't know there is Sunday school there for nursery children. There are Sunbeams and Cadets. If you play a musical instrument, there is a band for young and old.

In between Sunday school and church, there are refreshments for all and a get-acquainted social hour.

Getting back to my volunteer job, I cleaned the sanctuary and came out and was amazed at the sight of people lining the halls for help — people who ran out of money and food, people with small children who didn't know where their next meal was coming from. Next was the kitchen. Volunteers were getting some sort of lunch.

After cleaning up in the kitchen, there was rummage to be sorted. The Ladies Home League puts on a rummage sale, held the first Thursday and Friday of the month. If anyone needs items of clothing, they are given them when they have no way to pay 25 cents for articles.

Burned-out home victims are given furniture so they can get back to keeping house, and needed items are given.

From the rummage sale, they pay for medicine that is needed and items that welfare people need help with.

We also have a group of women who meet on Tuesday from churches all over the city. When churches also have Golden Army men pick them up and drops them off.

At our meetings, we do service to others. We have educational programs, do small jobs around the house, and also take trips together.

For women who work during the day, we have meetings in the evening. We also have Golden Army pot luck dinners on the third Thursday of every month.

We put $1 on the table and you can get a full meal. Money collected is used on worthy causes.

The Salvation Army also has a camp in Bourbon, Mo., Camp Mink. For those who attend Sunday school, the Cadets have a week at camp.

Welfare mothers with a couple of children have a week at camp. There is a week set aside for those who play a musical instrument of some kind.

The women in Home League have several days at camp in May. The seniors who attend Golden Army have five days in August at camp. That proves to be a real day.

I am writing this letter in the event someone wants to know what their donation to the Salvation Army does.

We are having a "Christmas in July" campaign for funds, as we no longer are using funds from United Way. Anything you can donate will benefit someone else in a big way.

Advocates user tax on alcohol

TO THE EDITOR:

In Illinois today there is an escalating undercurrent of frustration, disillusionment and discontent in the political process.

It appears that the balance of power has shifted from the people to money-powered special interest groups.

The Illinois Drug Education Alliance has never really been active in the legislative process before, but this year decided to support an alcohol user tax increase. Having done so, we can certainly attest to the frustration, disillusionment and discontent that others have experienced with the process.

The IDEA is the statewide grassroots volunteer drug prevention network. The last year, the system really worked for the good of the people, then how could this user tax fail?

It's almost as though average Illinois people have been disenfranchised by the alcohol lobby.

In Illinois, 44.5 percent of the adults don't drink, and 37.4 percent of the adults are light drinkers. How then can legislators who represent a broad constituency vote against an alcohol user tax increase?

Illinois has a serious financial deficit, and many state-supported services including alcohol and drug services have been severely cut. The IDEA believes that an alcohol user tax:

- Would start to bring revenues more in line with the costs of alcohol misuse;
- Would result in decreased underage drinking;
- Would generate badly needed revenues.

The IDEA would like a 5-cent per drink user tax on alcohol; this would raise a quarter of a billion dollars.

This experience of trying to make the process work has been discouraging.

When you look at the few legislators who don't receive money from the alcohol industry, and at what the industry does with their advertising and 800 telephone numbers, you wonder if the people of Illinois stand a chance. How can we compete?

The IDEA urges you to support an alcohol user tax increase and to contact your state senator and representative and urge them to vote for a tax increase.

Illinois' number one drug problem, alcohol, is to be solved, then the State Leaders must stand with the people of Illinois and against the big-money interest of the alcohol industry.

Ross Perot lacks managerial skill

TO THE EDITOR:

I wonder how many of the gung-ho supporters of Ross Perot (or president) know anything about him.

He made his billions contracting to perform the computer-based work in processing Medicare claims.

His Electronic Data Federal Systems corporation began processing Medicare claims in Illinois in April 1979. They "had problems," as the General Accounting Office put it. By September 1979, they had a backlog, with close to 454,000 claims pending.

The work was supposed to be done in Illinois with Illinois workers but EDF's farmed out to Dallas and Los Angeles for data entry. In September 1979, a former employee estimated, 100,000 pieces of mail were removed from the mail-room.

By March 1980, EDF's backlog of unprocessed correspondence was 19,000.

After the GAO report, the contract was taken from EDF and given to Blue Cross, which set up an office in Marion and does a satisfactory job.

The Wall Street Journal carried a three-column article about Perot's venture into the brokerage business. I remember some thing about that. The firm of DuPont Glare Forgan underwrote a $135,000,000 Illinois toll-road bond issue in December 1979.

I fumed about it. It was a no-bid deal. The excuse was that it was too big for bids.

I wrote an editorial about it on Feb. 25, 1981. It was for 40 years at 65 a percent and Ross Perot loaned the firm $10 million two days after the deal went through.

Perot had a big contract to computerize the firm's back shop, and subsequently bought the company. The Wall Street Journal says he lost $60 million on the deal.

I suspect he came out clean, but if he lost that much it's no testament to his skill at managing.

General Motors bought his EDS company and put him on the board, where he was so prickly they paid him big money for his stock to get rid of him.

He works the insider advantage when he can. Anthony Frank, postmaster general, 1979.

YOUTH FOCUS: What is the most important thing you've ever done?

(Asked of students at Madison Middle School and Grigsby Junior High School.)

By Pam Duespe-Hurd.

Amanda Supp, Grigsby.
"The most important thing I've done was making the choice to be in band. I joined the band the summer after third grade. I enjoy band but it is hard work, especially when we're getting ready for a concert tour. I play the saxophone and the flute. To increase my skill ability and talent, I participate in summer band. I am planning on staying in band all through high school, and even into college and even though people may call me 'Band Dork' I feel it was a smart and important decision to join the band."

Court order prohibits trash storage in Fairmont City yard

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

Fairmont City residents will no longer have to worry about trash being stored at the Rose-lake Railroad Yard anymore.

St. Clair County Associate Judge James M. Radcliffe issued a preliminary injunction Tuesday against TENNSV Inc., Conrail Corp. and CWI Inc. to prevent them from using the railroad yard as a storage or transfer facility for municipal waste.

The order was issued after a trainload of trash from New York, was stopped at the yard for more than a week.

Last week Radcliffe ordered the train, carrying 117 containers of trash, be moved out of the area by 11 p.m. July 8 because it was a health hazard to area residents.

The train left Fairmont City last Wednesday and has moved from place to place. It is now headed for Kansas City, Mo.

Fairmont City Police Chief Scott Penny testified that the trash cars were sitting on the tracks within 1,000 feet of a residential neighborhood. It is illegal to store waste within 1,000 feet of a residence or dwelling.

He also testified that he saw fluid leaking from the trash containers, the trash was causing an unbearable odor and attracting a large number of flies.

"One had a rotted floor and I could see trash coming out of the bottom," Penny said.

Radcliffe determined that because TENNSV Inc., Conrail Corp. and CWI Inc. were holding trash at the site for more than 24 hours and because trash was being moved from one vehicle to another, the companies were violating state law by operating a waste transfer station without a permit.

"It was obvious to me that they were operating a waste transfer station and I am just a lay person," said Pamela Boyer of Washington Park. "I think the judge did the right thing by ordering that trash out of here."

Boyer was among about 50 Fairmont City, Washington Park and East St. Louis residents who attended the hearing Tuesday. The trash train was causing a nuisance to residents of all three communities near the railroad yard, she said.

Attorneys for the three corporations argued that the injunction was a violation of interstate commerce laws because it prohibited them from their normal business operations.

"I wouldn't think of infringing upon the interstate commerce laws," Radcliffe said.

He said his order would not prohibit them from using the railroad yard to ship municipal waste as long as it was not transferred to other vehicles in the process.

Another hearing is set for 10 a.m. July 23 to discuss a similar situation at a Sauget railroad yard.

All for one — Siblings, from left, Megan Nolan, 5, Erin Nolan, 2, and Jonathan Nolan, 11, have a pretend sword fight while waiting for their mother to take them to the store with her Monday afternoon.

AFL-CIO endorses Democrats

Richard J. Walsh, president of the Illinois AFL-CIO, says the state's 12 million union members will work from now until Nov. 3 to ensure that Democratic majorities are maintained in the Illinois House and Illinois Senate.

The AFL-CIO endorsed 126 Illinois legislative candidates at a Committee on Political Education (COPE) meeting at the Springfield Hilton on July 9.

The group also endorsed 14 congressional nominees and three judicial candidates and voted to support the constitutional amendment for education that will be on the ballot.

Among those endorsed were Jerry Costello for Congress, Sam Vadala for the state Senate, Jim McPike, Monroe Flinn and Wyvetter Young for the state House, and Moses Harrison for the state Supreme Court.

"The men and women that we endorsed have all committed themselves to working for the workers of Illinois," Walsh said.

"Each of the endorsed incumbents voted for legislation benefiting working families at least 60 percent of the time. Those candidates who are not incumbents have shown through questionnaires that they support workplace justice and improved benefits for workers."

Although we are a non-partisan organization, it is obvious that Democratic majorities are critical to Illinois workers.

Isabel Schmidt to be honored

For more than 56 years the lives of many Granite City residents, young and old, have been touched by Isabel Schmidt. She is an individual who has devoted her life to the study and performance of music.

A lifelong resident of Granite City, she sang in church choirs and as a student before receiving her degree in Music Education from McKendree College in 1936. While attending college she was accompanist for Chapel services. Each weekend she returned home to play the organ for her church.

In 1942 she accepted the position of organist at a church in St. Louis. She later was organist at St. John Evangelical and Reformed Church (now United Church of Christ) of Granite City, returning to First Presbyterian in 1967. She became fulltime organist in 1968 and also directed the choirs. In 1988 she was honored for her 20 years of continuous service.

Schmidt "wore many musical hats" during the period from 1936 to 1992. In addition to her church organ work, she accompanied many soloists and also taught music in the Granite City schools for 39 years. She was hired in 1936 and retired in 1975. She has recently moved to Pawtucket, R.I., where she resides with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Berk. On Sunday, at a congregational meeting, Isabel will be elected as Organist Emeritus of First Presbyterian Church of Granite City.

•Weber

shocked. "I hope it will shock some sense into him."

Sturgeon charged Weber with conspiracy to commit theft by deception, a felony offense punishable by one to three years in prison.

Weber has vowed to fight the charge, entering a plea of not guilty, and has appealed the appointment of the special prosecutor to the state high court.

Sturgeon said evidence against Weber included testimony, court documents and statements reported in newspapers but declined to be more specific.

Sturgeon alleges that Weber and Dr. Edwin Wolgram, a St. Louis psychiatrist, conspired in 1989 to exaggerate damages in a civil lawsuit that Weber had filed against Amiel Cuelo, a Belleville lawyer prominent in St. Clair County Democratic politics.

The case involving the two, who have been feuding for nearly a decade, was dismissed before trial.

A preliminary hearing, in which a judge determines whether enough evidence exists to proceed with a case, could clear the air of political overtones.

"The people have a right to know if this is just a political prosecution or a prosecution based on evidence," Haine said.

Sturgeon said he hadn't sought a preliminary hearing because he and Weber had agreed Sturgeon would take no action until the Supreme Court ruled on requests by Weber, Haine and Wolgram to overturn the appointment of the special prosecutor.

"I don't care what they've agreed to," Haine said. "That deal still stands. They are using the criminal justice apparatus."

Sturgeon's charge, against Weber is the second time Weber has been charged with a felony offense by a special prosecutor appointed at Cuelo's request.

The alderman agreed to official misconduct in 1983, when he was state's attorney, but a judge dismissed the charge, ruling the alleged conduct was not criminal.

the most powerful apparatus in the republic — to indict a man for a felony based on political statements — spin-doctoring."

Ragsdale agreed and called for federal intervention, noting there are no Republican judges in either Madison or St. Clair counties.

"We need to get the Supreme Court or the FBI or the Justice Department involved in this," Ragsdale said. "The courts should not be used for a political inquisition."

He also urged Third Judicial Circuit Chief Judge Paul Riley, who appointed Sturgeon, to renounce interest in the 5th District Appellate Court seat held by Democrat Moses Harrison.

Harrison is Weber's opponent in the Supreme Court race, but he said: "I do not have any interest in being appointed to that seat at this time."

He has said he named a special prosecutor because Weber worked for Haine's office at the time of the alleged offense.

Harrison spokesman Bob Miner said the judge would not comment on the charge against Weber.

"We believe this issue is not related to the campaign," Miner said. "We have no intention of trying to exploit Mr. Weber's problems with the law."

Upsurge in A.O. Smith earnings

A.O. Smith Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Robert J. O'Toole has forecast in a meeting with analysts that the corporation will earn between $1.15 and $1.25 per share in the second quarter.

The forecast represents a significant improvement over the 10 cents per share earned in the 1991 second quarter. "This higher earnings estimate is the result of an estimated 15 percent increase in sales as well as lower operating costs," O'Toole said. "This follows the best first-quarter earnings in five years."

Improved market conditions experienced in the first quarter of 1992 carried over into the second quarter, O'Toole said. Industry sales of light trucks remained higher than the previous year, creating increased demand for light truck frame assemblies.

Electric motor and water heater volumes are also higher, compared with the same period in 1991.

3 area credit unions on Top 100 list

Three area credit unions are listed on Illinois' Top 100 Credit Union List for 1991. They are: Scott Credit Union, Scott Air Force Base, with $128.6 million in assets; Granite City Steel and Community Federal Credit Union, Granite City, with $69.2 million; and Operating Engineers Local 148 Credit Union, also of Granite City, $15.2 million.

The credit unions rank 11th, 21st and 98th, respectively. New to the list this year was Operating Engineers Local 148 Credit Union, which ranked 102nd in the state in terms of asset size in 1990.

"Despite the recession, credit unions in Illinois and nationwide are doing well," says Dan Plauda, president/chief operating officer of the Illinois Credit Union System. "Loan delinquencies are down, net income is running steady and reserves are up slightly."

The ICU System is the primary trade association for Illinois credit unions.

Low loan delinquency is good news for credit unions and is another sign of financial strength. According to the Economic Research Institute of the Credit Union National Association, the national delinquency rate for credit unions in 1991 was 1.58 percent. Credit unions in Illinois fared better than the national average, with only 1.51 percent of their total loan portfolio over 30 days delinquent.

Illinois ended the year with 831 credit unions. While the number of credit unions decreased 6 percent in 1991, due mainly to voluntary mergers, credit union membership continued to grow. Today, Illinois has 2.32 million members, compared to 2.25 million members nationwide from 13,977 credit unions.

Credit unions remain the bright spot in the nation's financial landscape, Plauda states. "They are among the nation's most successful and sound financial institutions."

with the strongest deposit insurance fund of any financial institution."

Heading the list of Illinois' Top 100 Credit Unions in 1991 was United Air Lines FCU, headquartered in Arlington Heights, with more than $2 billion in assets. United Air Lines FCU is also one of the top three credit unions in the nation. In the No. 2 is Construction Equipment FCU, Peoria, with more than $782 million in assets, which placed them in the top 100 list nationwide.

Other credit unions and their rankings on Illinois' "Top 10" list are: 3 — State Farm Illinois FCU, Bloomington; 6 — I.H. Mississippi Valley CU, Moline; 7 — Credit Union 1, Rantoul; 8 — Corporate America FCU, Elgin; 9 — Selfreliance Ukrainian FCU, Chicago; and 10 — Motorola FCU, Schaumburg.

One-fifth of firms are planning to raise pay

About one in five private Illinois employers will provide a pay raise of 4 to 4.4 percent for their hourly workers in 1992.

Less than 8 percent of manufacturers polled said they will implement pay freezes or cut salary and wages for their workers, according to a report issued by the Illinois Manufacturers Association, the state's largest industrial group, representing more than 4,800 manufacturers.

Compiled from the association's 1992 Compensation Report, the information is based on a statewide survey of IMA members and contains region-specific manufacturing-related jobs throughout Illinois, in addition to 1992 budgeted and 1993 projected wage and salary data on 180 manufacturing-related jobs.

More than 600 Illinois companies in six labor market areas representing wages and salaries for approximately 50,000 hourly non-exempt, salaried non-exempt and salaried exempt employees are included in this year's survey.

"These figures reflect a nationwide trend indicating employers are providing raises that are in line with the low rate of inflation," said IMA President Gregory W. Baize. "Although many Illinois-based manufacturers were affected by the nationwide recession, these figures represent a slow economic growth in the state."

Nine major job classifications, including clerical/administrative, manufacturing/technical and factory, and human resources/personnel, are featured in the report.

Some of the positions in the report include:

• Administrative Assistant. This position can earn anywhere statewide from $476 to $615 a week.

• Office Manager/Administrator. Statewide, this position can garner an average weekly wage of $625 a week.

• Personnel Manager. The weekly salary for this position fluctuates depending upon the region. Overall, the average salary reported is $818 a week.

• Fork Lift Operator. Overall, this position pays $9.13 in Northern Illinois and $9.87 in Chicago's suburban collar counties.

• Machine Operator. This overall statewide average is $9.32 an hour.

Copies of the 1992 Compensation Report are available through the IMA for $108 (tax included) for IMA members and $132 (tax included) for non-members. To obtain a copy, persons may contact the IMA's Industrial Relations Department at (312) 922-6575, ext. 103.

Granite City Glass receives safety award

Granite City Glass and Fence Company, a subsidiary of Dempsey/Adams Companies, has received a contractor's safety award from Shell Oil Company's Wood River manufacturing complex.

The award, part of Shell's "Committed to Prevention" program, is presented to contractors who have logged more than 1,000 accident-free work hours.

"We are very proud to be in a select group of contractors recognized for safe work performance at Shell," said Adams. "Our company is dedicated to safety, and it is through the hard work of our employees that this commitment is carried through."

A.O. Smith calls special meeting

A.O. Smith Corporation announced its board of directors has called a special shareholders' meeting tentatively scheduled for Aug. 27 to approve three charter amendments which will increase the corporation's financial flexibility and enhance the liquidity of the Class B Common Stock.

The charter amendments will:

O'Toole also announced the board of directors intends to meet after the special shareholders' meeting to consider declaring a special, one-time dividend, which would only be paid on the Class B Common Stock. The board did not specify the amount of the dividend or when it would be paid.

A.O. Smith Class A full voting and Class B one-tenth voting Common Stock are traded on the American Stock Exchange.

Disney book helps make memorable birthday parties

By Jane Cosby
Correspondent

Children's birthday parties have turned into a competitive sport for parents. The person who is the best at making a party memorable is the person who is the best at making a party memorable.

But it is possible to bypass the expensive party activities and still give your child a memorable birthday party.

The "Disney Party Handbook" by Alison Boteler (Disney Press, $9.95) offers help in this endeavor. Ten theme parties based on Disney movies are presented. None of them requires expensive materials and most are extremely simple to prepare.

Boteler gives instructions for party decorations and recipes for party fare. Each party features a special equipment. You can save more than the price of the book just by skipping the store-bought cake and making your own.

Get your child involved in the planning and preparation, and the party will be a surefire hit. Here are some party ideas from the book just in case there is a birthday coming up soon in your household.

Little Mermaid Party: Lay out a scallop shell pattern cut from pre-cut paper or marbled wrapping paper. Decorate the house in a Caribbean sea motif: seashells, fishnets and a fishbowl with a goldfish.

For a get-acquainted activity, let children decorate a jumbo-size pasta shell with cup markers. For a party favor, each child gets a shoe box decorated to look like Ariel's treasure box. Spray paint the outside of the boxes with bubble paint. Then line the inside with gold wrapping paper. Fill the box with a few chocolate coins, a bubble pipe, a bottle of bubbles and a fork. Label the bubble pipe and the fork "snailail" and "snailail" respectively. Put each child's name on a box with glitter paint.

Have sack races, but call the sack a mermaid's tail. Play calypso music and dig the limbo with a fishing pole.

Serve fruit salad, tuna and salad, refrigerator biscuits shaped into a shell shape, decorated cakes and cupcakes liners filled with fish-shaped snack crackers.

Dave Crockett — King of the Wild Frontier

Send invitations written on a piece of paper torn from a brown grocery bag. Decorate the house with a wilderness motif: leaves, branches, pinecones and stuffed bears, skunks and raccoons.

For a get-acquainted activity, let each child make a coonskin cap. Use a double thickness of gray tissue paper. Bind each of the two short ends of the paper with tape. Tuck one of these ends under, then fit the paper on the child's head and gather a tuck at the back, anchoring it with tape. Use black electrical tape to put raccoon stripes on the tissue paper tail.
